ST. ALBERT HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATING CLASS

by Hennie Stibbe

St. Albert High School honored its 1968 graduates and a number of academic awards were presented to members of the graduating class, at commencement exercises held at the school Friday evening.

The graduation exercises were preceded by a banquet and followed by a dance at the St. Albert Community Hall.

In his opening remarks School Principal R. J. Johnston commented he felt a bit "awkward" and likened his position to that of the guest at a dinner table who finally manages to open a bottle of ketchup after it has passed through about six hands.

"Everyone helped loosen it, but you get the credit for opening it," said Mr. Johnston.

Mr. Johnston assumed the principalship of St. Albert

High last month, succeeding William Soprovich, who now resides in Manitoba.

In congratulating the graduates and their parents, Mr. Johnston said the latter should take full pride in the achievements of their sons and daughters.

Mr. V. J. Maloney, superintendent St. Albert Public School District, brought greetings from the district.

Commenting on the semester system which is now in effect at the high school, Mr. Maloney said this is a transitional year for the people of the district, the school and its students.

"The world, industry and schools are on the move," said Mr. Maloney, adding that the district is endeavoring at all times to keep in tune with new developments and changing times.

The class history was given by Simone Bourgeois. Miss Bourgeois recalled how she and her fellow graduates started their scholastic careers at Mission Park School 12 years ago, "amidst a sea of mud."

When the group reached Grade 3 the St. Albert Public School District was formed and the classmates were separated with the city slickers going to Vital Grandin and the rural students remaining at Mission Park School.

Some of the graduates are now attending universities and technical schools, others have entered the bus-

Cubs-Scouts collect $500 in drive

The St. Albert Cubs and Scouts held their annual bottle and rag drive Saturday and today club coffers are more than $500, richer.

More than 60 boys, accompanied by about 30 fathers and a few mothers, participated in the drive in which they collected more than 1,000 dozen cases of beer bottles, realizing about $300.

They added $200 from pop bottles and about $50 from rags.

The kindness of Mr. Neil Ross, who made his depot available, and of Mr. James whose personal assistance was an immense help, was warmly appreciated by the cubs and scouts.

The money will go towards next summer's cub camp. The cubs and scouts are sponsored by the St. Albert United Church.

Alcan wants homes ready by February

Alcan Design Homes Ltd., of Edmonton hopes to have homes ready for occupancy in its project in Braeside by February, project manager Herb Hornig said Monday.

At present, roads are being cut out and services laid to the 113 lots involved in the project.

Mr. Hornig said the company could not release the price ratio of the homes as plans were still being worked on.

"We should be finished in three weeks," he said.

Mr. Hornig said the company will build on speculation as well as presale, using the homes for show purposes. The exterior of the homes will be of aluminum and brick.

The project is only the first phase of the company's plans for St. Albert. It holds more land in back of the present location and will also develop it.

Ray Gibbon was sworn in as mayor as the new council met for the first time Monday night. Mayor Gibbon was sworn by Councillor Richard Wheatley in the absence of returning officer G. P. Moore. Rene Kambouroff and Bob Russell were sworn in as councillors. Council will meet in committee of the whole Thursday night.

Board awaits word on hospital start

The board of the Sturgeon General Hospital is awaiting word from Health Minister Dr. J. Donovan Ross to start construction of a 100-bed active treatment hospital in St. Albert.

The board last week recommended to the minister that a bid of $2,229,500 by Harsim Construction Ltd., of St. Albert, lowest by nearly $37,438 of 11 submitted, be accepted for construction of the hospital on 10 acres of land just north of the Youville Home.

Construction can begin immediately once we have the approval of the minister, the approval of the minister," hospital administrator Gordon Townend said Monday. "If we are able to get the footings in before the snow flies it would enable us to accomplish a substantial amount of work during the winter."

It is estimated that the hospital will take 18 months to complete so if an immediate start were made, it is conceivable that it could be in operation by spring of 1970.

Bank inaugurates new service

The Bank of Nova Scotia in Grandin Shoppers Park, St. Albert announced that they have received their Ident-Proof Colored Camera and can now take customers photographs right in the branch for Cheque Guarantee Cards. This is a new service being provided by the Bank of Nova Scotia, and it provides the customer with a unique and fool-proof identification card. The card bears the full color photograph of the holder and the guarantee of the Bank that the cheques issued on it are as good as cash.

The holder may write a cheque anywhere for anything and for any amount up to $100, and, provided the person to whom the cheque is written confirms that the face, name and signature match that on the card, the Bank of Nova Scotia guarantees to honor the cheque.

The $100. limit is adequate for most purchases. Larger transactions merely require additional cheques.

The Scotiabank Cheque Guarantee Card is made of strong plastic, virtually indestructible in normal use or by human accident, such as going through the washing machine. Full color portrait, name, number and signature are all on a single sheet of film imbedded in plastic and cannot be altered or tampered with. The card can be used only by the holder identified by the photograph, and thus there is no risk of fraudulent use should the card be lost or stolen.

It is not only an excellent identification card, under which cheques will be accepted by the post offices and liquor vendors in Alberta, but a built in line of credit may be arranged should it be required. The amount of the line of credit is arranged when the card is issued, with a maximum credit set up at $1,000. Should the account go into overdraft, the customer pays interest at 1% per month on the amount of credit used. The card is available on application to anyone whom the Bank considers to be responsible for the potential liability created by possession of the card. The Scotiabank Cheque Guarantee Card is therefore available to most Canadians.

MEN'S SOCCER

The St. Albert team is presently training for the winter soccer season when, sponsored by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, they will be playing in the Edmonton District Indoor Soccer League. Training sessions are held every Friday evening. For the next two Fridays (Oct. 25 and Nov. 1) training will take place in the gymnasium at Sir George Simpson Elementary School.

BOYS' SOCCER

Last Saturday morning an enthusiastic crowd of mums and dads (mainly mums) saw the Legion Lancers win the Hercules Challenge Cup, donated by Kay and Lloyd Hopkins. They beat Eric Jackson's Grosvenor Lions by a score of 2-1, Brad Sinclair (Team Captain) and Leslie Sawchuk scoring for the Lancers and Denis Sanche scoring for the Lions.

The manager of the winning team, Jim Drysdale, and coach Barry Welsh were very proud as they had seen their team come up from the bottom of the league to the moment when they were presented with the cup by Del Larsen, treasurer of the Hercules Sports Association. Jim Byrne of the Grandin Shoppers' Park donated the League Trophy and was there to present it to the winning team, Bill Wood's Grandin Rangers. The Rangers' win was based on the points system over the season.

GOURMET COOKING

Last year a very popular short Gourmet Course was given by Mrs. Joyce Pearson of Northwestern Utilities. In response to requests from people who missed it - and also from people who attended but enjoyed it so much that they want a repeat - another course has been arranged this year and will consist of two talks to be given in the Music Room at Leo Nickerson School on Nov. 4 and 18 at 8 p.m., and two demonstrations which will be held in the kitchens of the Gas Company on Nov. 25 and Dec. 2. BASKETBALL

Basketball for boys aged 12 to 14, sponsored by the YMCA will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays in Sir George Simpson Junior High School from 7 to 9 p.m., starting on Oct. 29.

The boys had a very successful season last year and this year will again be playing in the Provincial Optimist League. Uniforms are supplied - just bring your running shoes. Boys who are interested should phone the coach, David Hansen, at 599-3713.

BADMINTON

The executive for the coming season was chosen at the general meeting of the Badminton Club held last Thursday. The president is Frank Carnahan; president-elect, Bill Alderton; secretary, Beryl Harding; treasurer, Doreen Dolman; tournament captains, Betty Ontkane and Patrick Waunch.

The club plays every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday in Vital Grandin School from 8 to 10:45 p.m. (Note the addition of Tuesday evening) A tournament will be held on Nov. 4. Any members wishing to participate should phone Doreen Dolman at 599-7246.

POWER SKATING

Under the sponsorship of the St. Albert Figure Skating Club, last year's "pro" Joy Chlesa, has offered to teach power skating as well as figure skating this winter. The purpose of power skating is to train boys to skate properly with endurance and agility.

Power skating is a set program and each child will be tested on the national skating standards at the end of the season. Badges will be awarded to those passing the test.

The cost per boy is only

$3. for ten sessions and time has been booked at Braeside Rink on Saturdays from 3 - 5 p.m.

This is a marvellous opportunity for our young boys to be taught how to skate properly instead of just being pushed on to the ice and left to their own devices.

While watching our figure skaters one Saturday last winter, a hockey coach was overheard to say "Wish my boys could skate as well as those girls." Okay, Coach, now your boys have the same opportunity to be taught by a well-qualified professional. The Kinsmen Club, who will once again be sponsoring hockey, will be happy to supply additional information or phone the department of parks and recreation at 599-6601.

"All Treasure House furniture is Unconditionally Guaranteed"

Letter to the Editor Fraser again

On behalf of my family, I would like to take this opportunity of thanking the many people who have written to me on the occasion of our departure from St. Albert. I am afraid that the letters are too numerous to reply to individually.

It is with great regret that I am severing my ties with St. Albert. I have lived and worked here for ten years and have watched and been a part of the growth of the community from a small village to a modern town of which we can all well be proud.

If I have in any way contributed to the life of the community I am truly grateful. Over the years I have been associated with most of the organizations in existence in the town and my relations with them have always been most cordial. My hope is that my successor will be accorded the same co-operation and good-will. I feel rather like one of the trees I love so dearly; I am about to be uprooted and transplanted to unfamiliar surroundings! But like a tree I hope to shortly take root in Moose Jaw and continue to grow.

St. Albert will always hold a very special place in the hearts of myself and my family and I know we shall always look back with pleasure on the years we have spent here. I hope the Town will continue to grow and prosper and I shall continue from a distance - to take a great personal interest in its development.

My thanks to the editor of the Gazette for affording me this opportunity of expressing my heartfelt appreciation and good wishes to the citizens of St. Albert.

Yours most sincerely,
Andre Gate.

Earn Cash While Sleeping

The Lions Club in St. Albert is looking for applications from local women who would like to earn money while sleeping on the job!

That's right. The Lions will pay cash to the candidates chosen to be put to sleep in a bedroom being set-up in the window at Hutchings' Shoe store in Grandin Shopper's Park.

Famous hypnotist, Master Sinclair will put one volunteer to sleep at noon on Friday, Nov. 1st until the Friday evening performance and another for Saturday, Nov. 2. While screened from the store interior, the sleepers will be in full view of the public in the window display. They will be taken to the Simpson school auditorium at 8 p.m. each evening to be awakened on the stage by the master hypnotist.

It's all good clean fun and part of the excitement of the big show coming to St. Albert next week-end. Interested young ladies should get in touch with Mr. Gordon Townend at 599-3467 or 3669 as soon as possible.

Basketball officials in demand

Many schools in the north central zone of the Alberta Schools Athletic Association are turning to basketball, now that cross-country running is about to end.

League commissioner Roy Gouchey is searching for prospective officials.

Any men interested in officiating league and tournament games may phone 599-4753 for further details.

Fraser again heads public school board

David Fraser was reappointed chairman of St. Albert School District No. 3 board of trustees at a recent meeting.

Dr. Walter Mirlin is vice-chairman.

The various board offices became due for reappointment after Mr. Fraser and Trustee Don LaBelle were re-elected by acclamation Sept. 18. Mr. Fraser asked trustees to accept appointments to the various standing committees as previously established.

The St. Albert Protestant School board gave its approval for the use of school buses to transport students to the YMCA in Edmonton for swimming lessons.

The program could not have been carried on without the board's approval as the highway traffic board had a complaint regarding the use of the buses. The YMCA pays for the use of the bus, but the program must be school sponsored.

Dr. William Cuts was appointed the board's representative on the zone executive.

St. Albert Liberals appoint delegates

The St. Albert Liberal Association named its delegates to the provincial convention in Calgary at a recent meeting in Morinville.

Delegates from St. Albert will be association President Ken Crooks, Bob Russell, Joanne Russell, Ray Gibbon, Eileen Gibbon, Richard Wheatley and Gerry Torpy.

Paul Chalfoux, Bill Morin, Art Soetart and Peter Zuidema will attend from Morinville.

Named as alternate delegates were Lou Calder of Morinville, Leon St. Martin

These students from Room 8B at Vital Grandin School earned a total of 78 points to take top team honors in the school's cross-country run recently. Room 7C was second with 43 points.

25 local Socreds will help choose leader

St. Albert Social Credit Constituency will nominate 25 delegates for the party's Leadership Convention at their annual meeting in Morinville Nov. 6. The convention will be held in early December, when some 1,700 voting delegates from the province's 65 constituencies will choose a new leader to replace Premier Manning.

The constitution has been relaxed for this particular leadership convention, which will allow those interested to take up memberships right up to the night of the annual meetings of the individual constituency meetings. Regularly, memberships have been required to be purchased seven days prior to such meetings.

Send a dime on a big errand

Adversity is the only diet that will reduce a fat head.

At a modern art exhibition, the first prize in sculpture went to a curiously shaped form bearing the sign: "The sculptress shaped this entirely with her tongue."

Someone questioned the exhibitor: "Who is this talented sculptress?"

"My cow," was the reply. "That's her salt block."

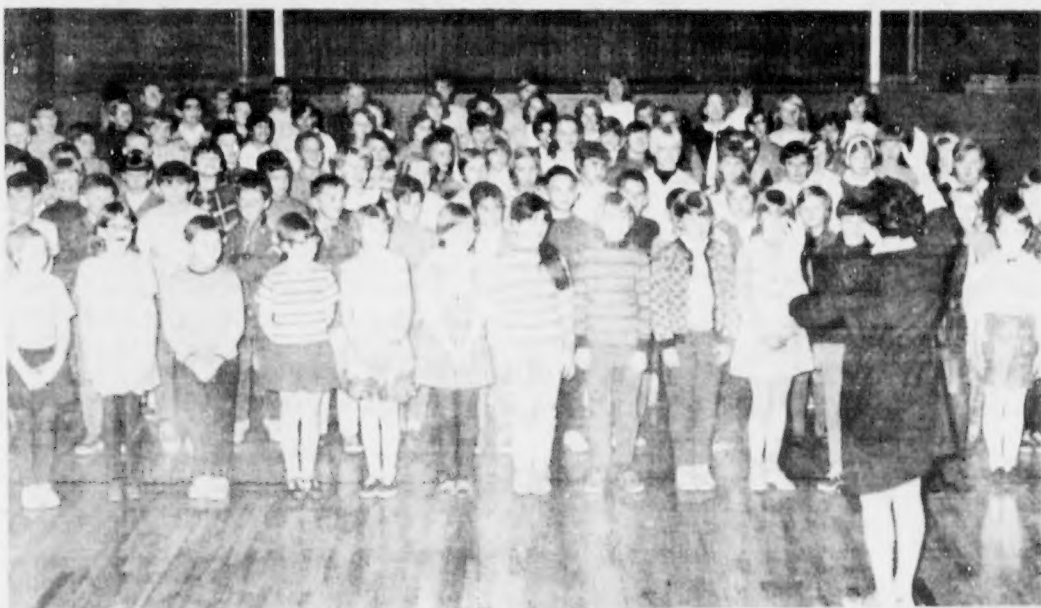

The Sanctum will now charge admission of 50 cents for non-members whenever the coffee house is open. No charge for members.

Anyone wishing to obtain a membership card please contact Albert Kennedy at 599-8482.

Can a dime dropped into an orange and black box on Hallowe'en night solve all the problems of the world's sick and hungry children? No . . . But it's a start. UNICEF regards each dime it receives from the Hallowe'en collection as a fresh start for a child in one of the many distressed areas of the world. And a fresh start means another small triumph of hope over despair. UNICEF deals in hope . . . with your dimes. The coins you have ready for the goblins and witches who call at your door on Hallowe'en will do a mighty big job.

The sounds emitting from the recorders of these Grade 6 students at Father Jan School when The Gazette took this picture Monday could hardly be classed as music. But apparently everything is not as bad as it sounds. "I'll have them playing carols by Christmas," teacher Alf Brunner said confidently. Mr. Brunner said the boys can already play jingle bells, after only three lessons. He said the instrument can be learned in a matter of weeks. Mr. Brunner, who taught the instrument at Mission Park School while with the Sturgeon School Division, introduced it to Father Jan students when he joined the school this term.

Father Jan students are showing a keen interest in singing. Last week, Mrs. Bertha Kennedy, who teaches most of the music at Father Jan, registered 118 glee club candidates out of an enrolment of 160 Grades 5 and 6 students. John Kaminski, school principal, said 60 would be the most manageable number for the club, but he said he couldn't see how it could be cut back to that because of the enthusiasm shown. Students have given up much of their noon hours and their recesses as practices are held during these times. Mr. Kaminski, who believes that the fine arts have not been given the prominence they deserve at the elementary level, feels that the program helps not only those who show talent in particular areas but could also be a partial solution to the drop-out problem in higher grades.

These Vital Grandin students joined with their counterparts at Paul Kane High, St. Albert High and Camilla School at Riviere Qui Barre to win all three trophies presented in the Northern Alberta zone finals in the cross-country running competition held recently in Drayton Valley.

St. Albert sweeps Drayton Valley run

A team formed of students from Vital Grandin School, St. Albert High, Paul Kane High, and Camilla School from Riviere Qui Barre won all three events in a cross-country running competition at Drayton Valley recently. St. Albert won the girls aggregate with 10 points, a four-point edge over Strathcona. St. Albert boys' team had a tougher fight off it, their eight points edging Westlock by one.

In the grand aggregate, St. Albert had a comfortable margin, running up 18 points to Strathcona's 12 and Westlock's 11.

The St. Albert runners earned full points in junior girls, senior girls and junior boys competitions and added a third-place finish in intermediate boys.

STANDINGS
Boys aggregate: St. Albert 8; Westlock 7; Whitecourt 3; Hinton 2; Drayton Valley 2; and Barrhead 1.

Girls aggregate: St. Albert 10; Strathcona 6; Hinton 4; Westlock 4; Barrhead 2.
Grand aggregate: St. Albert 18; Strathcona 12; Westlock 11; Hinton 6; Whitecourt 3; Barrhead 3; and Drayton Valley 2.

Several other areas were represented at the meet but their teams failed to qualify for any points.

The girls team from the North Central Zone, which includes St. Albert and district, took first place in the Alberta Schools Athletic Association's cross-country competition at Red Deer on Saturday.

The North Central boys team came in third, following Calgary and Western Central.

Valerie Hermanutz of St. Albert High came in third and Risa Joly of Vital Grandin eighth to pace the St. Albert runners.

About 60 girls and 65 boys competed in the event. The girls ran one mile and the boys two and a half.

About 40 St. Albert boys competed in the CAHPER cross-country run at Kinsmen Park in Edmonton on Saturday. Damian Bone of St. Albert High School turned in the best performance taking first place in the 14-year-old competition.

The postings become effective in May of next year.

More rinks needed

The St. Albert Curling Club didn't have a full house last year, and as yet it doesn't have one this year.

Club manager Art McCormick said Monday night that there is still openings in the men's and mixed sections.

The men's section, which curls at 7 and 9 p.m. Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays, has 32 rinks in the fold. It is aiming for 36.

"We need full rinks in both sections," Art said.

The Wednesday night mixed league, which curls at 9, still has openings for two rinks. It has 10.

The Tuesday night mixed league set its sights on 10 rinks. It has only six.

The Saturday league, the most popular for mixed curling, has 20 of its target of 24 rinks.

There's still time to get back on the ice lanes, if you have the urge. Just call Art at 599-7007.

New Chinese Restaurant Opens in Northgate

Entrance to Edmonton's newest Chinese Restaurant at Northgate.

The bar area of the House of Quon Lounge features an interesting back-drop display of delicate Chinese pottery pieces. When on duty the attractive young ladies who serve add further to the decor.

Mr. York Chang, Chef at the House of Quon is seen left foreground, in the kitchen. He came to Edmonton from Hong Kong three months ago to assume his new duties.

A view of the dining room at the House of Quon.

Quite a number of St. Albert Residents were "first-nighters" at the new House of Quon opening in Northgate area October 12. Particularly because of several recommendations and partly because of two wives who enjoy a night off from cooking. We visited Edmonton's newest Chinese restaurant last Thursday evening with another couple. A short drive (about 15 minutes) and lots of parking space started the evening on a relaxed note.

HOUSE OF QUON

Comfortably seated by a charming hostess and provided with a cocktail list, we had a chance to look over the Chinese Decor as carried out in lighting fixtures, prints, wall sculptures, objects d'art and carpeting, with lavish use of red complimented by grey and white.

Our cocktails were served with appetizers - in which the house specializes with a choice of 8 exclusive items. We enjoyed our tiny meat balls with spicy red pepper sauce. The food menu we put entirely in the hands of Mr. Albert Quon.

And there's no doubt about it - "The foods the Thing" at the House of Quon. It was superb. Each platter was delicious and piping hot and each combined with the other three for a delightful dining treat, Chinese Style. An excellent corn soup, Manchurian cubed steak, Cantonese chow mein, Quon fried rice with mushrooms and pot pea with shrimp tempted us into second helpings all round. For dessert, ginger ice cream and tiny bowls of green tea were exactly right.

Later we were invited to see the kitchen where we met the chef and his staff and were shown the huge basin type Chinese cooking pans over extremely intense heat, a genuine Chinese barbecue and the spacious preparation area. Chinese cooking involves more than 80% preparation time compared to less than 20% cooking time, we were told. This explained the extra large kitchen, which had surprised us.

The quiet, spacious lounge done mainly in Chinese red with pictures, pure silk light shades and a fascinating display of authentic pottery pieces imported from free China provided a charming atmosphere for an hour's relaxation and chat before it was time to leave.

Montpetit-Prefontaine Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Montpetit

LEGAL - St. Emile's Church was the setting of a beautiful autumn wedding of Juliette Prefontaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Prefontaine and Richard Montpetit son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Montpetit all of Legal.

The bodice with its empire waist featured the re-embroidered alcon lace appliques with seed pearls. The appliques were carried along the hemline of the A-line skirt. The train which cascaded from the shoulders was held in place by rosettes boarded with matching alcon lace. Block that sound Electronics experts are baffled by reports of a device that blocks the sound of a radio or record player from the would-be amateur tape recording artist. It could be a boom to the $60 million-plus Canadian record business, though, Basil Jackson reports in The Financial Post. The electronic device, Jackson says, was recently invented in Britain. It works whether the sounds come through a radio or directly from a record player.

1 cup canned pineapple juice
Yellow and red food coloring

Pour pineapple juice in bowl. Add yellow and red food coloring to make deep orange colored juice. Peel and remove most of core from apples, leaving bottom of core in apple. With a sharp paring knife, start at top of apple and lightly score apple's surface with thin lines resembling the traditional pumpkin. Dip apples into fruit juice, turning until desired orange color. Remove, drain. Fill centre with candy corn or raisins. Top with stem of green pepper.

Rural Postmasters

It is hard to believe but the last major outpost of good, clean, no-nonsense federal patronage may be on its last tottering legs. New postmaster-general Eric Klerans has decreed that henceforth any opening for rural postmaster jobs will be advertised. All applications for the job will be placed in the hands of a local rating board made up of three qualified persons and appointed by the district or area postal director. The board will examine applicants to find the most suitable man. If necessary, it can call in applicants for face-to-face interviews. The board itself will then choose the new postmaster. This may sound normal, The Financial Post comments, but it is a significant departure from previous practice as it applied to Canada's 10,000 or so small town and rural postmasters.

No, not a cook in a soup kitchen but a skilled artist working to present an accurate picture of Alberta's bird and animal life. "Bone Boiling" is just one of the many facets of the work of Michael Hampson, taxidermist at the Provincial Museum and Archives of Alberta. The boiling comes about when a skeleton requires complete and thorough cleaning for mounting purposes. The process of bone cleaning is actually quite complicated, boiling is one of the simpler steps; this removes the flesh from the bones. The taxidermist's work also entails obtaining and mounting specimens of every living creature found in Alberta in settings which closely resemble their natural habitats. The Provincial Museum and Archives of Alberta displays artifacts and specimens depicting the history and natural history of Alberta. It is the responsibility of the taxidermist to ensure that the specimens are properly prepared and mounted to accurately represent the animals in their natural environment.

... a woman whose advice is heeded by other women?

This paragon is Mrs. Irene McGregor, Director of the Women's Cultural and Information Bureau of the Government of Alberta. Just as an example since the passage of the new divorce bill in the federal government, her office has mailed out over 4,000 copies of the new edition of the booklet "Laws of Interest to Women", which includes a summary of the divorce laws and every one of these in answer to a specific request. Other publications issued by the Bureau include Fact Sheets on "The Landlord and the Tenant", "Working Women", "Pensions and Social Allowances", "Women on Juries", "Estate Tax Rebate Act", "Women in Canadian Politics", "Alberta Women Pioneers", "Training, Education and Upgrading for Mature Women", and "Bursaries and Scholarships". The Women's Cultural and Information Bureau has also issued a directory of women's organizations in Alberta. The list is added to weekly and hundreds of telephone calls are received and answered daily on subjects ranging from child care to legal rights.

have you ever met...

... a first-aid man for ailing communities?

When interest and participation in the life of a community begin to flag, it is time to call in an expert who is able to breathe new life into community activities. Such a man is Randall Meeks who, with his co-workers in the Rural Leadership Training and Development Branch, Extension Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture, offers a three-day course in the development of leadership skills and communication to any community which feels the need for revitalization. Arrangements for place and time are left to a local organization with the Branch providing personnel and materials for the course. Objectives include making those attending aware of new areas of learning, developing self-confidence in individuals, and the evolution of competence and efficiency in groups. By encouraging initiative and interest within the community, Rural Leadership Training is providing the opportunity for people development.

... an oil well driller who doesn't want to bring in a "gusher"?

Although he works on a busy, fully-operative drill rig, Harvey Fiedler, of the Alberta Department of Industry, Training, and Commerce, is not a "gusher" himself. He is a "driller" in the sense that he is a community development expert. He is a man who is able to breathe new life into community activities. He is a man who is able to breathe new life into community activities. He is a man who is able to breathe new life into community activities.

... a dairy foods detective?

As a detective, the Dairy Foods Inspector, Mr. A. J. D. Smith, is a man who is able to breathe new life into community activities. He is a man who is able to breathe new life into community activities. He is a man who is able to breathe new life into community activities.

... a pension plan "watchdog"?

Any employer in Alberta establishing a pension plan for his company has a 50-50 chance of being assisted by Walter Alward. Walter is one of the two Analysts in the Pensions Benefits Branch, Alberta Department of Labour. Any proposed pension plan must be checked by one of these two men to ensure that it meets the requirements of the Alberta Pensions Benefits Act. Once it has been approved, the plan may then be registered with the Branch and put into operation. Among the responsibilities of the Branch is to see that employees are fully informed as to the terms and provisions of the pension plan, to make sure pension money is paid in to provide the benefits promised, and to ensure that payments received are invested properly. Employees who have a complaint may take it to the Pensions Benefits Branch, which also requires a report on all pension plans each year to make sure all proper payments have been made.

Families need help on drug problem

Society is greatly troubled by wide-spread reports of the use of drugs in harmful ways. This concern arises from the fact that we do not now have to go to the underworld to find people who abuse drugs, but come upon them in all social classes and in all economic divisions.

No clear guidance is at hand about what steps to take. The general ignorance about the nature and effect of various drugs may be traced to the moral detestation most people have of the improper use of drugs, and their consequent inclination not to think about this unpalatable subject. Without information about the incidence of the habit, and about the legal, medical and social treatment of it, and the causes that give rise to it, people are at a loss.

There is, however, a healthy spirit in Canada of disbelief in drugs as the answer to weak knees and sick souls. As individuals and as a nation we cannot allow ourselves to sink into the position forecast by Aldous Huxley in his Brave New World where all we need to do if we feel worried, anxious, or upset is to take a pill.

Nevertheless, we are conscious that some people find it easier to turn to chemical comfort than to learn to handle their problems in a mature way.

What is the condition of the person who allows himself to become dependent upon drugs? It was strikingly described by Dr. S. J. Holmes, Consultant Psychiatrist with the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario.

"We can depict man's moods as an ever-changing pattern or spectrum. From hour to hour, influenced by inner and outer events, man's ego moves to and fro across this spectrum. At one end of the spectrum lies melancholia or depression; at the other end is mania or extreme agitation. A normal person stays in the middle range, straying into the extreme regions only rarely; if and when he does enter these regions, his social, psychological, endocrine and other biochemical factors adjust, and harmony occurs. In the emotionally sick person this healthy adjustment does not take place. The person at the agitated end of the spectrum is tense and anxious, and will respond to a drug that will soothe or tranquilize; the person at the opposite end, whose load of depression is so heavy that he can't raise his head and whose life is empty, meaningless, valueless and void, will respond to a mood elevator."

In other words, an individual takes drugs because they offer an easy short-cut way of escape from the reality in which his is involved.

We must be careful in our application of the word "drug". A drug is anything used as a medicine, and the preparation of drugs has been an honourable profession for many centuries.

However, drugs are not always taken with common sense. They are used by people who feel small in the face of the complexities of life, by people who seek a temporary feeling of importance, by people who wish to depress their anxiety or to raise their spirits, or by people who desire to experience hallucinations.

UNAWARE OF DANGER

Ignorance is the cause of much distress due to drugs. People are unaware of the serious danger to their personality that can result from habituation, or even the smallest uncontrolled experiment with psychoactive drugs such as LSD and STP. Many young people have said that they might not have been curious enough to try drugs if they had known more about them.

One thing is certain. If young people on the verge of becoming dependent upon a drug for relief from this or that physical or psychological distress felt free to visit a doctor without a feeling of guilt and without fearing that they would be ridiculed, lectured, sermonized, or punished, there would be less danger of addiction. Medical people are, in the tradition of their profession, eager and willing to lend assistance and leadership. It must be made known to the young people that the help will be given without censure.

FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

There is a general belief that much of the venture into drug-taking among young people stems from unsatisfying family life. At some stage, the young person has failed to find in his family that degree of understanding he expected.

Police have found that most parents are incredulous when they are told that their children are indulging in drugs.

Wise parents will welcome the warning and respond to it intelligently. They will not rant at their children, but will first take a critical look at the state of their family as a family. They will inquire into their own behaviour.

Then, having started at the root cause, they will go on to correct the defects. They will seek the help of professionally qualified people for the rehabilitation of their children. They will rebuild the family as a household distinguished for its mutual interests, its close relationships, its affectionate loyalties, its bond of union in which the welfare of every member, whatever his

Airborne Cadets hold change-over ceremony

Cadets of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Cadet Corps donned the maroon beret of the Canadian Airborne Regiment for the first time Oct. 16, in a ceremony which marked the end of PPCLI sponsorship of the corps in Edmonton.

As the command to 'change headdress' rang out across the drill hall, 62 youths removed the green beret of the 2551 PPCLI Cadet Corps and put on the maroon beret of the 2551 Airborne Cadet Corps.

The cadets were inspected by Major W. H. J. Stutt, who was commanding officer of the PPCLI Depot and Colonel D. H. Rochester, commander of the Edmonton based Canadian Airborne Regiment took the salute. Col. Rochester advised the youths on parade that they would be taught all the skills of the airborne soldier -- mock tower practice -- lashing airborne loads for dispatch -- but it would be some years before they would be old enough to leap out of aircraft. When speaking of their past affiliation, he told them not to forget their association with the PPCLI.

"It is a proud regiment" he said, "a unit with great traditions. Look on the days with the PPCLI with a good deal of pride."

At the present time there are 62 cadets in the corps but Captain Ross Edwards of the Cadet Services of Canada is hopeful that they will have a total of 80 boys, age 13 or older in the Airborne Cadet Corps.

needs may be, is recognized as the responsibility of all.

There is no doubt about the need for education on drugs. Our troubling situation demands that education should start at the grade school level and should be continued through high school and into adult education. Parents need authoritative and understandable information which they can pass along to their children. The medical profession can help.

ENCOMPASS OUR HEARTS

Each Remembrance Day, Canadians ponder weighty questions and in humility and sincerity seek the answers. This year we may ask ourselves this question: What is a Canadian?

Many a Canadian asked himself this question; many a weighty answer was offered, and as many discarded. We looked so hard for the answer that we failed to see it.

All the while the answer was in our midst. The answer was a man, a man whose magnificent personality was not American, not British, not French, but wholly Canadian.

His duty was performed so superbly, his personal life so exemplary, that all too often we scarcely noticed him - George Phillias Vanier, the ultimate Canadian.

Were we looking for a patriot? George Vanier loved his country with a fervor unequalled anywhere. A dashing, fearless soldier? George Vanier's blood stained the battlefields of France, and the regiment he led is known the world over for its courage. A family man, a man of kindness? Never was a husband and father more devoted to wife and family, and every child who saw him was immediately his friend. A Christian? George Vanier's day, wherever he went, began with Mass; his first public words on assuming his country's highest office were a prayer. A servant of his country and his fellow men? "If Canada is to attain the greatness worthy of it, each one of us must say: 'I ask only to serve,'" said George Phillias Vanier, the ultimate Canadian.

The life of George Vanier paralleled the life of Canada. He was born while Sir John A. MacDonald still lived. His whole life was service, and even as his life ebbed he still looked forward.

He served, as soldier and diplomat, what would be a life-time for most men. On retirement, he and his beloved wife began a new "career" of service to the unfortunate. At the age of seventy-one, he was asked to become Governor-General of Canada. His answer was the same one he had always given to the call of his country. The onerous duties of state were shouldered as a plain matter of duty and with the conviction that God's will be done.

Thousands upon thousands of miles, this ultimate Canadian travelled. The remotest corners of Canada heard the same message - an urgent call for unity and brotherhood. Everywhere this great Canadian carried the same good humour, the smiles and the unfailing joke that put everyone at ease.

At home in Ottawa, all were welcome at Government House. The glittering state ball was replaced by a fun-filled annual Christmas party for under-privileged children.

From the love of children, of home and of family, which characterized the Vaniers, sprang the idea that will be their legacy to Canada, the Vanier Institute of the Family. General Vanier wanted the people, the poor and rich to know the Institute would help them. He believed that the family is where crime and delinquency must be prevented, where character is formed, discipline learned and happiness and security found. He wanted everyone to take a hand in building this project for the nation.

Everything about George Vanier was Canadian. As we watched a riderless horse, with empty boots reversed in the stirrups, following a gun carriage which bore the body of a noble gentleman, we felt stirrings which are supposed to be absent from Canadian hearts. Suddenly, we were Canadians and proud of it, because this valiant man was a Canadian and he was proud of it.

This wisdom of George Phillias Vanier will always be with us. His words will mean ever more as Canada matures. "Let us extend the hand of welcome rather than the stone of judgement. In Canada, unity is essential, we cannot get along without one another."

On this November eleventh let us follow the example of General Vanier in our lives as Canadians. He always will be the answer to our question: What is a Canadian? His final New Year's message was his testament for all Canadians: "Let us open the windows and the doors of the provinces. Let us look over the walls and see what is on the other side. I want to be known abroad and at home, not only as a citizen of one of the provinces, but as a Canadian . . ."

May this Remembrance Day deepen in our hearts the true meaning of Canadian Citizenship so that we may become like George Phillias Vanier, the ultimate Canadian.

Nurses training termed medieval apprenticeship

An associate professor of medicine at the University Hospital recently levelled a blast at our educational institutions and followed up with the claim that nursing training is one of the few surviving examples of medieval apprenticeship.

Dr. R. F. Taylor, speaking to the St. Albert Chapter of the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, rapped our educational institutions for a system of education that allows little in the way of action but plenty in the way of boredom.

"Youngsters are being exploited," he said. "They are unwittingly being brought through the schools and universities as sacrifices to the industrial military superstate."

"Then, like any exploited class, they revolt, and their weapons are dropping out, outlandish dress, long hair, rude electronic noises and sexual promiscuity and pot."

He said young people of today do not want the universities to exist solely for the purpose of training them to run companies, design industrial and military machines and manipulate others.

"They want more of the humanities, more about interpersonal relationships, sociology, anthropology, creative arts, and they want this kind of instruction to come from sensitive people who have been there, not just lectures read from a text book."

Clothing fires can be reduced by A. E. Bridges,

Alberta Fire Commissioner

Since we are not able to get along without using fire, we have to know more about protecting ourselves from fire. Thanks to technical advancement in the production of fire retardant chemicals, the hazard of clothing burns can be greatly reduced. The time may even come when certain clothing will be required by law to be flame retardant. This could first apply to children's clothing and also to clothing worn by incapacitated persons.

In the Fire Commissioner's office of Alberta we have several case records following investigation of deaths by fire in institutions where patients' dressing gowns and bed covers that were readily ignited by matches or cigarettes have been the main cause of death following serious burns. Also in our records we note that when children play with matches, the danger of their clothing catching fire is critical.

Dr. Taylor said, however, that "the greatest abuse is not in our secondary schools and universities, but in schools for nursing."

"We take girls from high school and plunk them into a big metropolitan hospital," he said. "The pitch is that we are about to give them a profession and at the same time educate them a little - work in the wards and get a smattering of microbiology."

"In three years we graduate the RN. The hospital has renewed its labor force. But what about the girl herself? A profession perhaps - but the lowest paid of all but education."

Kinsmen Conference will outline program

Mr. Bill Curran of Peace River, national officer of the association of Kinsmen Clubs will attend the Kinsmen District No. 4 fall council meeting to be held in Peace River, Saturday, Oct. 26, when hosts will be the Kinsmen Club of Peace River. Delegates from 55 Kinsmen Clubs will attend the meeting at which Governor Howie Burke of Edmonton and his executive will outline their program for the ensuing year. National President Harry Moll will explain the overall policies and national program adopted for the all-Canadian organization at its recent national convention held in Kamloops, British Columbia.

A number of delegates from the Kinsmen Club of St. Albert will be attending. The meeting will also enable Kinsmen from throughout district No. 4 to exchange service ideas and hear how other clubs raise funds for service work.

The Association of Kinsmen Clubs is composed of some 13,000 members in

As can be expected, there has been a continuing demand for safer working conditions in industry particularly in chemical plants, petroleum refineries and steel mills. In these industries flame proofing or to be more technically correct, flame retarding of workers' clothing is now the rule as an every day precaution against accidents, injuries and fire.

It appears to be equally important to provide for improved fire safety for children and those confined in institutions. Fortunately the means for providing increased fire safety are ready at hand. Consult your fire chief or commissioner for further information.

"While other girls of like intelligence and personality are at college getting at least a smattering of liberal education, student nurses are serving a medieval apprenticeship."

"They've probably lost the last opportunity to develop new persons. They'll take technical competence with them to their work but in society they may well be arrested at the intellectual level of a high school grad."

"It's a disgrace," Dr. Taylor said, "that we couldn't postpone training long enough to spend some time educating."

Mission Park students on Awards program

The Sturgeon School Division Board has decided to adopt the practice of holding a central awards night at which all scholarships and academic awards will be presented to students of all divisional schools.
